

09/344010

ABSTRACT

There is disclosed a method and apparatus for encoding products with unique identifiers which are correlatable with the purchaser of a product. Data related to the purchaser is correlated at point of purchase with the unique identifier and stored in a database for latter retrieval upon theft or loss.